

1. What is absent

Being together was the most important thing, but we do not remember the name was it "Minga"?

When do we really have time for collective digestion of the events happening?

What was the question again?

I just erased something that I found irrelevant for the reader, is it self censorship?

If there are guidelines, they need to address responsibility and consequences in some way?

Or is there no way out of the dominant regime of exploited invisibility? What is it that makes certain works List of hateful -isms: add ageism?

How do we create in this and the other planes an ecology based on geo-logical and inter-species solidarity?

3. What if something was absent

Where is the reader, who is taking care of what and whom?

Do I need a house?

Do I need a body?

But what happens then when we take that individuality out?

Does collective production exist without these difficulties?

What was the question again?

2. What might go missing, or should not be absent

Shall we keep all the coasters with drawings?

What should be kept, as evidence or reminder of someone or a collective process?

As it might lead to the end of the group itself, who cares to take a picture then?

What are the systematics of working together that need to be established before a process is even set in motion (like the boot system in Linux)?
